Description

The Akyga® AK-AD-53 adapter is a product that enables easy and convenient connection of devices equipped with a universal USB type C interface to an external display with an HDMI connection. This is a great solution, for example for Macbooks, which are usually no longer equipped with an HDMI port, which disables direct connection to devices compatible with this standard. The adapter uses an HDMI socket supporting 4K resolution and a USB C connector in version 3.2 Gen 2 (USB 3.1) offering an increased data transmission speed. The length of the adapter cable is 15 cm. The adapter is unidirectional, it means that the data flow is one way from USB C to HDMI. The product is supported by the Android operating system.
